

Calling Young Creatives! Looking to Learn New Skills? Age 11-16

Noughts, Crosses and New Voices Weekly sessions every Wednesday

16:30-18:30

The Story Museum

To mark the 25th anniversary of the groundbreaking novel Noughts and Crosses, join a free exciting workshop series at The Story Museum, in partnership with the Black Excellence Project and Kuumba Nia Arts.

Work with professional artists and authors of African and Caribbean heritage and get hands-on to develop skills in design and story making. You will work towards an installation and displays which will feature in our museum for all our visitors to enjoy!

The course runs on a weekly basis, from 17 September 2025. The course is free. Refreshments are provided and travel expenses can be reimbursed.

THE STORY MUSEUM

In February 2026, The Story Museum will open a new Noughts and Crosses immersive storytelling space, celebrating 25 years since Malorie Blackman's groundbreaking novel. Located in the Enchanted Library, this space will invite visitors to explore the story in playful, sensory, and imaginative ways – sparking curiosity and connection. Best of all, it will be co-designed with young people from the Black Excellence Project – that could be you!

Across fun workshops, you'll explore the Noughts and Crosses story and create your own responses through exhibition design, writing, performance, film, or podcasting.

You'll gain creative skills, meet inspiring role models, and share your work at the museum and online. Plus, you'll discover Black heritage and storytelling while making new friends and boosting your confidence.

Whether you're a budding designer, performer, writer, or just curious – this is your chance to help shape a bold, brilliant story space and leave your mark!
